Course Objectives

Given the proliferation of products and brands in the last few years, the marketing manager's job gets more challenging. For an emerging market like India, wherein more and more MNCs enter into the market and become more competitive, managing products and brands become one of the critical sources of a Sustainable Competitive Advantage. However, marketers struggle to engage with customers and develop products meeting the customer's needs. Further, it gets more challenging to build and sustain brand equity. Thus, it is of utmost importance to build a foundation block for your brand and a better understanding of the customer approach.

This course shall equip managers with a better understanding of product management, the new product development process, critical decisions in branding, and managing a brand portfolio to enhance brand equity. The course highlights the inherent risks and different strategies for overcoming them.

Pedagogy

A combination of cases, exercises, lectures, and projects will be used.
