Course Objectives

Given the proliferation in products and brands in the last few years, the marketing manager's job gets more challenging. For an emerging market like India, wherein more and more MNCs enter into the market and become more competitive, managing products and brands becomes one of the critical sources of a Sustainable Competitive Advantage. However, marketers struggle to engage with the customers and come up with products meeting the needs of the customer. Further it gets more challenging in building and sustaining brand equity. Thus, it is of utmost importance to build a foundation block for your brand and a better understanding of the customer approach.

This course shall equip managers with a better understanding of product management, the new product development process, critical decisions in the area of branding, and managing a brand portfolio to enhance brand equity. The course highlights the inherent risks and different strategies for overcoming them.
